Rewarding History Recorded Over 60 Years

Founded by the Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet in 1925, Mount St. Mary's College has graduated 6,500 students in majors ranging from traditional liberal arts studies to individually designed programs. At the time of its founding, the college was housed temporarily at St. Mary's Academy, then located at Slauson and Crenshaw in Los Angeles.

Two years later, in 1927, the Sisters purchased 36 acres from the Rodeo Land and Water Company at $4,500 per acre. The new site for the college stretched among the foothills of the Santa Monica mountains, 1100 feet above sea level, overlooking Los Angeles and 40 miles of Pacific Ocean. Twenty years later, an additional purchase brought the Chalon campus to its present 56 acres. At the first commencement exercises, June 16, 1929, baccalaureate degrees were awarded to 10 students in the charter class. In 1962 the college expanded to its second campus on the Doheny Estate in central Los Angeles. The Doheny campus complements the educational opportunities of the original Chalon campus in west Los Angeles by offering career-oriented Associate degree programs and graduate programs.

Academic Exploration Encouraged

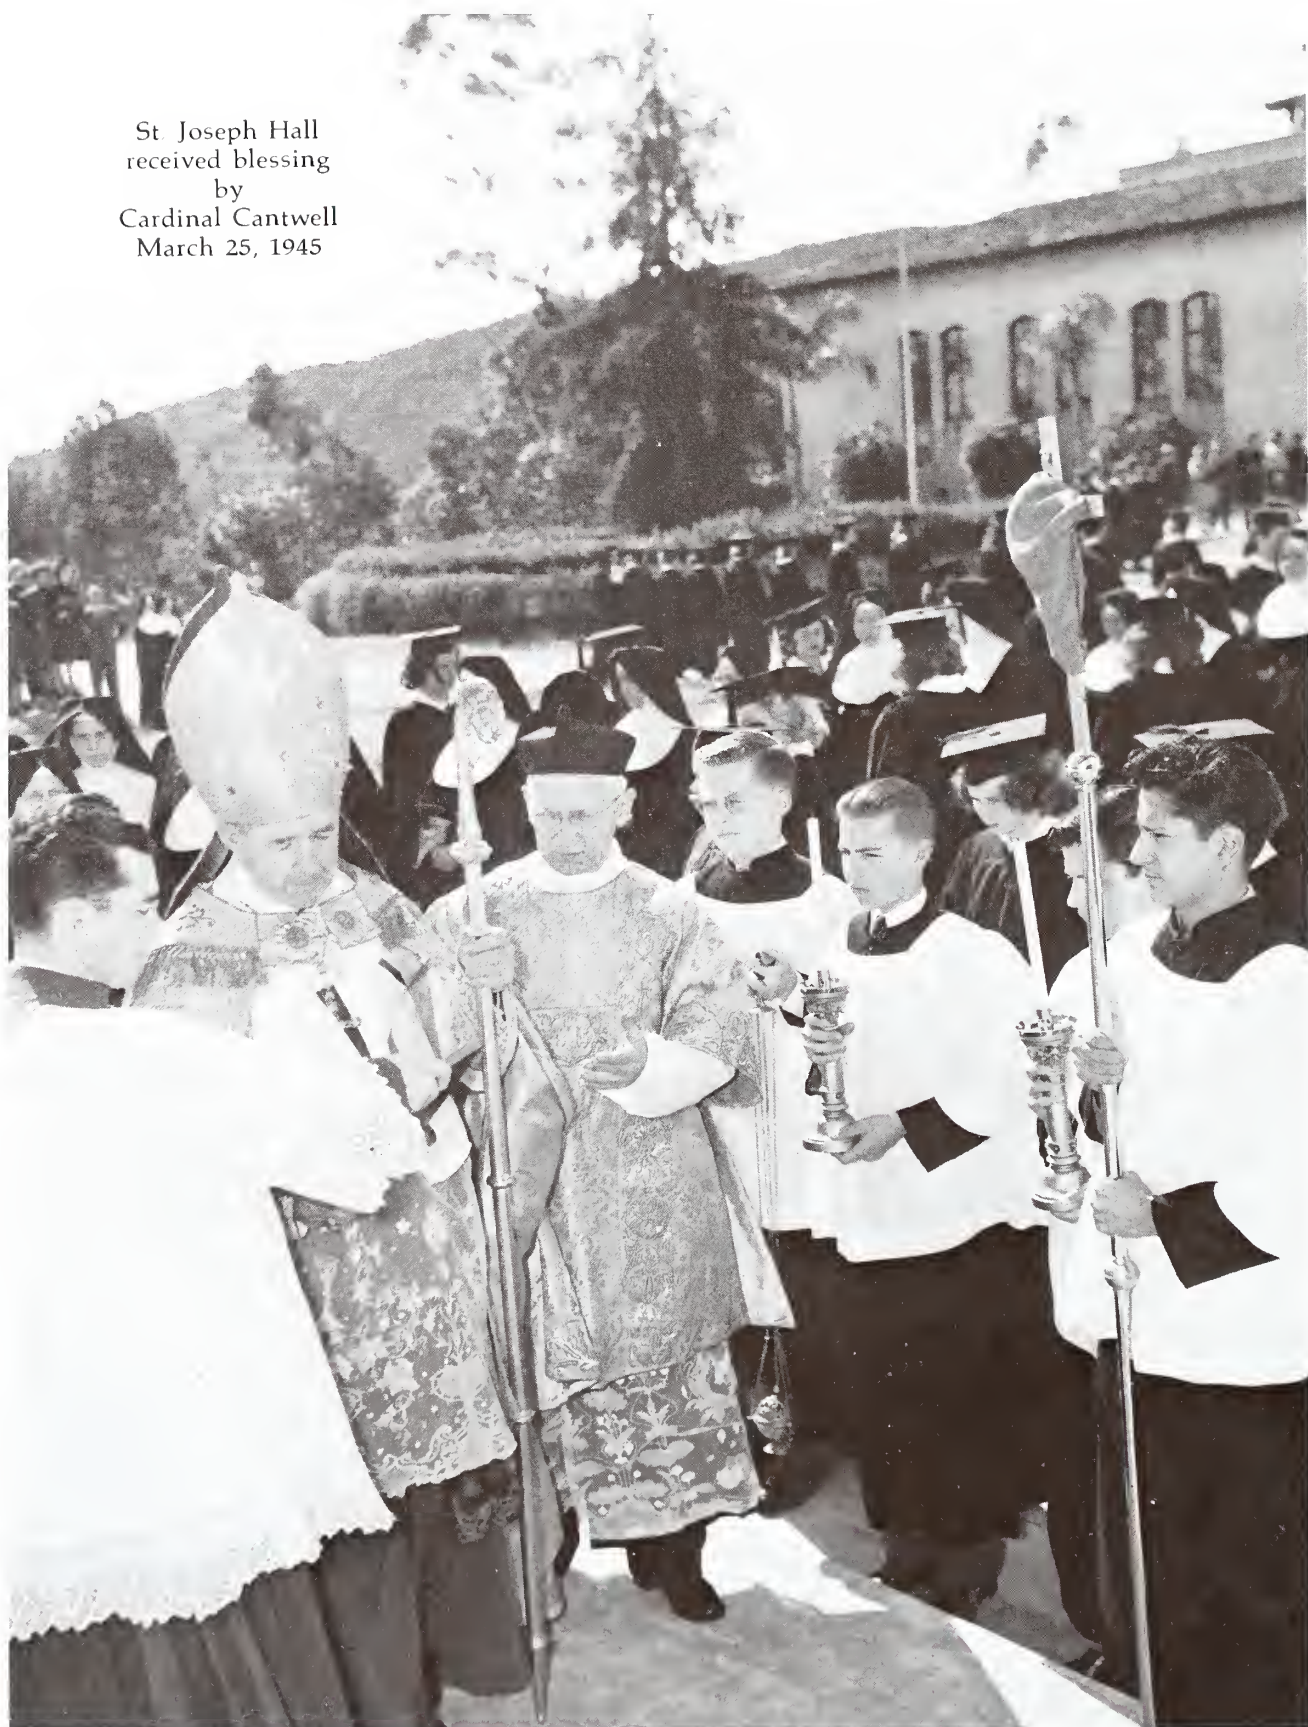

Mount St. Mary's college is an academic community devoted to continuing exploration of our relation to God, other persons, and nature. This exploration takes the form of programs designed to provide experience in the principal modes of thought by which we reach understanding, and the strengths and limitations of these modes. The objectives are to assist the student to develop a disciplined and continuing curiosity, a receptivity to new ideas, and a base for evaluation of these ideas. Within the framework of these same major objectives, the college also offers programs in which the student engages in more intensive study appropriate to a specific career. In this the college ensures that it will not only directly serve the society that supports it, but will also enhance the student's awareness of an ever-changing context within which values of the individual must operate.

Fire Raveged Mt. St. Mary's In 1961

PHOTO No. 1. Smoldering embers is all that remained of a classroom at Mount St. Mary's College after a brush fire swept through the surrounding hills. Destroyed were 250 homes in the area.

PHOTO No. 2. The fire heavily damaged Rossister as shown in the photograph. The fire did its damage November 6, 1961.

Sister Rebecca organizes a clean-up detail of Loyola University undergraduates who pitched in to help restore order in the fire-damaged convent and other buildings hit by 1961 brush fire.

Loyola undergraduates help girl students of Mt. St. Mary's clean up the debris in the fire-damaged buildings. Three structures were hard hit by the brush fire, but heroic work at the height of the blaze saved the remainder.

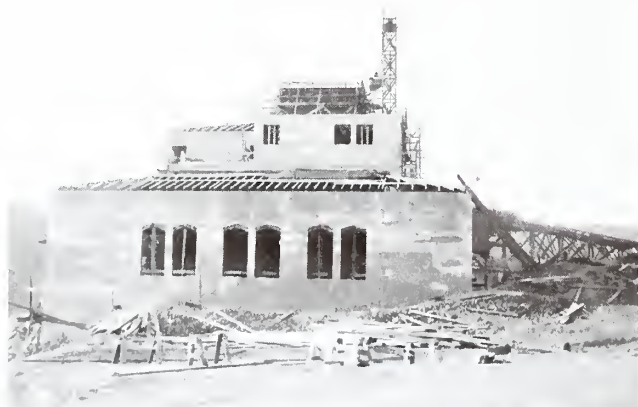

Women Top Concern Of The College

Several factors emerge from the history and environment of the college that create a distinctive community. A true academic community becomes possible — the total college — not just the classroom, the academic major of the course — is a learning environment. Historically, the college is a liberal arts institution with a special concern for the education of women; however, men are admitted to undergraduate music and nursing, to graduate programs, and to summer sessions. It is a small college of about 1,000 students on the two campuses.

The Chalon campus primarily offers baccalaureate programs in liberal arts and sciences, and related professional training. The Doheny campus offers a variety of programs ranging from associate through graduate, in which the metropolitan setting is a significant factor in learning.

The first building on campus was Brady Hall finished in 1931. The three photos show the near-start, mid-completion, and the finished building.

Humanities Building Finished: Cardinal Manning Pays Visit

The Humanities Building was completed in 1964 with three stages of construction depicted below. The new residence was dedicated April 28, 1985, with Cardinal Manning, Regent Alice K. Aldworth, and Sister Magdalen Coughlin attending.

Senior Class Leaders Did Fine Job

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS — Karen Garcia, treasurer; Allison Lunch, president, Shaun Armstrong, vice president; and Patty Corrales, secretary. This quartet was kept busy during the school year conducting the necessary class business and affairs.

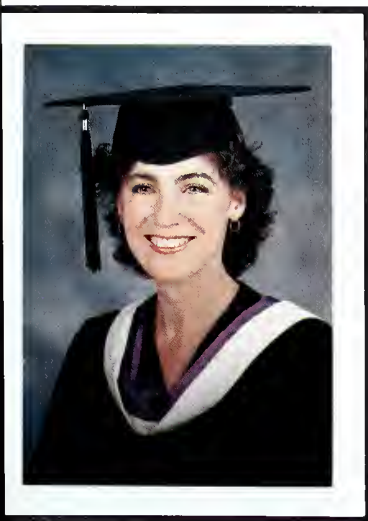

Mount Saint Mary's College class of 1986 was challenged to become the best people they could academically, spiritually, and socially be. Members of the class have grown from the participation in numerous activities at the Mount.

Seniors attended leadership workshops, served the college as ASB representatives, Resident Assistants, health advocates, and in the Campus Ministry.

The many academic accomplishments included honors at Mary's Day and graduation, overseas study, plus research internships, and sending a delegation to the Model United Nations.

Many of the seniors have grown tremendously during their years at Mount St. Mary's College and it is the hope that they will carry on her spirit with them wherever they go.

Because the seniors were the upperclass they had an additional responsibility for keeping the others informed on matters of mutual or overlapping concern.

'Mary's Day' Highlighted School Year

Fifty years ago Mary's Day was a celebration to honor the Blessed Mother Mary. The students processed in long gowns to the statue of Mary enshrined on campus and crowned her with a wreath of flowers. In the mid-sixties, the day included a special Mass and a luncheon, followed by a reception to initiate graduates into the alumnae association. Through the years, Mary's Day was highlighted by an awards convocation where seniors and underclass people accepted academic and co-curricular service awards.

Today, Mary's Day is a time when families and friends join the administrators and faculty in honoring all students for their many fine achievements.
